Statement from the Chairman

During our last reporting period (2012-2013) we saw the first prosecution and conviction following an investigation by the Anti-Corruption Commission's (ACC) Investigatory Unit (ACU). However during this reporting period we saw the first prosecution and conviction under the Anti-Corruption Law. This was considered a landmark case and an important step for the ACC.

Corruption continues to exist at various levels in the Cayman Islands and while the statistics are lower than in the previous reporting period the activities of both the ACC and the ACU were no less significant.

Along with the continuation of investigations by the ACU the ACC dedicated a large amount of its time on education and training both locally and internationally. The ACC believes that public education and internal education is an important facet of the Commission. Education contributes to an atmospheric change in attitude to corruption and thereby enables the public to do their part through reporting. It further supports anti-corruption internally by equipping our investigators with the latest tools, research and information on the fight against corruption.

Finally the ACC has also progressed during this reporting period through its electronic resources by securing funds in the 2013-2014 budget in order to purchase a small purpose built server and a case management system for the use by the ACU. The use of these systems will ensure information is kept securely and that the ACU is able to comply with legal disclosure issues as cases proceed to trial

The ACC continues to work diligently to receive, record, assess and investigate allegations of suspected corruption in accordance with the ACL on behalf of the ACC. We also continue to ask the public to do its part by reporting suspected corruption and working with us to gain the evidence needed to secure convictions in such cases.

David Baines
Chairman, Anti-Corruption Commission

Section One

The Anti-Corruption Commission Islands (“ACC”)

1.1 ACC Membership

In accordance with the Anti-Corruption law (2008), the Commission consists of the Commissioner of Police, the Complaints Commissioner, and the Auditor General, and two additional members appointed by His Excellency the Governor, namely Sir Peter Allen and Mr. Leonard Ebanks.

1.2 Role

The Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) was created in accordance with Section 3 of Cayman's Anti-Corruption Law (2008) which came into effect on 1 January 2010 and the Commission is responsible for the administration of the said law.

1.3 Powers, duties and functions

The ACL establishes the ACC and sets out its powers, duties and functions. Section 3 states:

- (1) There is established for the purposes of this Law a body to be known as the Anti-Corruption Commission and the Commission is the anti-corruption authority of the Cayman Islands.
- (2) The Commission is responsible for the administration of this Law and has the powers, duties and functions set out in this Law.
- (3) The provisions of the Schedule shall have effect as to the constitution of the Commission and otherwise in relation thereto.”

- (b) Receive and (as permitted) request, analyse and disseminate disclosures of any information -
 - (i) Concerning corruption offences under this Law or suspected offences; or

The ACC is then permitted by the remainder of the section to do a number of things pursuant to the above including matters relating to the freezing of assets and the receiving and requesting of information, including from overseas anti-corruption agencies.

The ACC has a further duty, under section 4(2) (d), to retain a record of all information and agreements obtained or made in relation to the section for a minimum of five years.

Applications in relation to restraining assets etc. are stated to be required to be made by “the Commission” upon permission being granted by the Grand Court. Applications will be dealt with separately as part of the protocols.

1.4 Control, Oversight, and Policy Directions

The ACC is permitted, by virtue of section 28(1), to issue guidelines setting out:

- (a) the forms and procedures for making a report of a corruption offence; and
- (b) the operational procedures in connection with disclosures made to the Commission under this law.

- Reporting annually to the Governor; and
- Issuing and reviewing guidelines for the making of reports and for disclosures made under the ACL.

Section Two

Breaches of the Law

2.1 General Overview

The Commission receives reports of alleged breaches as identified in the legislation through direct communication to members of the Commission; requests for mutual assistance from overseas; and those reported directly to the Police or other law enforcement agencies, either overtly or covertly. In each case the allegation will be fully recorded and a decision taken as to what, if any, further investigation or action is appropriate. Each allegation is assessed on its own merits, however consideration is given as to whether the issue constitutes a breach of the legislation; and if so, is the matter in the public interest to investigate and / or prosecute. No prosecution is undertaken without the express authority of the Director of Public Prosecutions in accordance with the Anti-Corruption Law (2008) Part 2, Section 7 (as amended by the Director of Public Prosecutions (Miscellaneous Amendments) Law, 2012).

Any alleged breach occurring prior to the commencement of the Law and not forming an on-going sequence would be investigated and prosecuted, if appropriate, under the existing legislation available at the time.

2.2 Corruption Offences in the Cayman Islands

Corruption can be described as abusing a position of trust to gain an undue advantage. Corruption, therefore, means that decisions are not taken for public benefit, but rather to serve private interests.

Corrupt behaviour can be defined as follows:

- A Public Officer (PO) or Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) uses, or tries to use, knowledge, power or resources which they have gained as a result of their position for personal gain or for the advantage of others ;
- A PO or MLA uses, or attempts to use, their position to interfere with justice, to commit an offence or to prevent an offence being detected or punished;
- A PO or MLA acts dishonestly or unfairly, or breaches the trust of the public;
- A member of the public influences, or tries to influence, a PO, MLA or foreign PO or foreign equivalent of an MLA to use his or her position in a way that is dishonest, unfair or breaches public trust.

In accordance with sections 10 to 25 of the Anti-Corruption Law of the Cayman Islands the Anti-Corruption Commission may receive reports of allegations of the 16 offences detailed in 2.3 below.

 - (e) the signature of the person who has made the report or some other means of verifying the person's identity.

It is noted that some of these offences can only be committed by a public officer (PO) or a member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA) while others can be committed by any member of the public.

Section Three

Reporting Corruption

3.1 Making a Report

If you believe that there has been an act of corruption, the ACC asks that you complete and submit the reporting form found in the appendices section of this document. Matters should be reported to the ACC whenever there is a reasonable suspicion that any form of the above conduct has occurred; as soon as is reasonably practicable after the behaviour has occurred or been discovered.

If a matter is urgent, i.e. urgent action is required to correct the results of the behaviour or there is a risk of continued corrupt behaviour or that damage will be done to a person or organisation if the matter is not dealt with quickly, this should be made clear on the report.

Reports may be made to the ACC in the following ways:

- a. Directly to an individual member of the ACC;
- b. Via the Confidential Reporting Line;
- c. Directly to the Commissions Secretariat Manager or any supporting staff; or
- d. Directly to the ACU.

Any person who has knowledge of alleged corruption and/or fraudulent activities is urged to report such information in detail to the Anti-Corruption Commission through any of the established mediums found below.

The ACC will accept all information either anonymously or with identification of the person making the report, if he/she so wishes. The ACC will make every effort to protect the confidentiality of information provided and identity of those providing that information.

The ACC will encourage a caller, if the information is to be taken in a live situation, to identify his or her self as it may be necessary in the future to seek additional information or clarification of information received. This information also allows the Commission to be able to provide the respondent with updates on the investigation.

It should be noted that the process for receiving complaints is not restricted to the ACC; information may be provided to any Police Officer of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service. If such a disclosure of corruption is made to a Police Officer this information will be reported to the Anti-Corruption Commission through the Commissioner of Police within a period of 7 days from the time of first receipt. On receipt of the information from the Police Officer, the Commissioner of Police, as Chairperson of the ACC, shall inform the ACC at the next Commission meeting or any time prior to the next ACC meeting.

3.2 Duty to Report

As it relates to the Anti-Corruption Law (2008) individuals should be aware of the principles that guide the performance of public officers in the conduct of their duties. Public officers may incur criminal liability for corruption as follows:

- Those directly involved: An individual who is directly involved in committing a corruption offence in accordance with the Anti-Corruption Law (2008) may be liable for the offence.
- Those indirectly involved: An individual may be liable for a corruption offence where he/she is indirectly involved in committing the offence.
- Failure to act: An individual may be liable for a corruption offence even where he/she was not directly involved in committing the offence, but was willfully blind to it.
- Aiding and abetting: An individual may also be liable for aiding and abetting where he has aided or assisted in the committing of the offence.

Section Four

Completed Anti-Corruption Investigations

INDICTMENT 70/12

On 19 June 2014 a jury found Edlin McCarthur Myles guilty of three counts of obtaining property by deception and four counts of obtaining pecuniary advantage by deception. No evidence was offered by the prosecution on the other two charges (one charge of attempting to obtain a pecuniary advantage by deception and one charge of attempting to obtain property by deception) due to the unavailability of the complainant due to health reasons. Mr. Myles was charged in Indictment 70/12 of these offences contrary to sections 247(1) and 248(1) respectively of the Penal Code (2010 Revision).

The charges relate to Mr. Myles dishonestly obtaining cash (totalling $630) and dishonestly obtaining for himself a pecuniary advantage, namely the opportunity to earn commission on an insurance policy by deception, that is by falsely representing that insurance was needed at that point in time by various individuals in order to secure housing through the National Housing and Development Trust Scheme. The offenses occurred at various times during the time period of 1 January 2011 and 13 December 2011.

Whilst Mr. Myles was not charged with offences under the Anti-Corruption Law the investigation in this case was performed by members of the Anti-Corruption Unit (ACU) of the Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) with assistance from Officers of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service (RCIPS).

On 26 June 2014 Justice Alexander Henderson sentenced Mr. Myles to a custodial sentence of six months. Mr. Myles was subsequently granted bail by Justice Richard Williams pending his appeal of both his conviction and sentence to the Cayman Islands Court of Appeal.

INDICTMENT 105/12

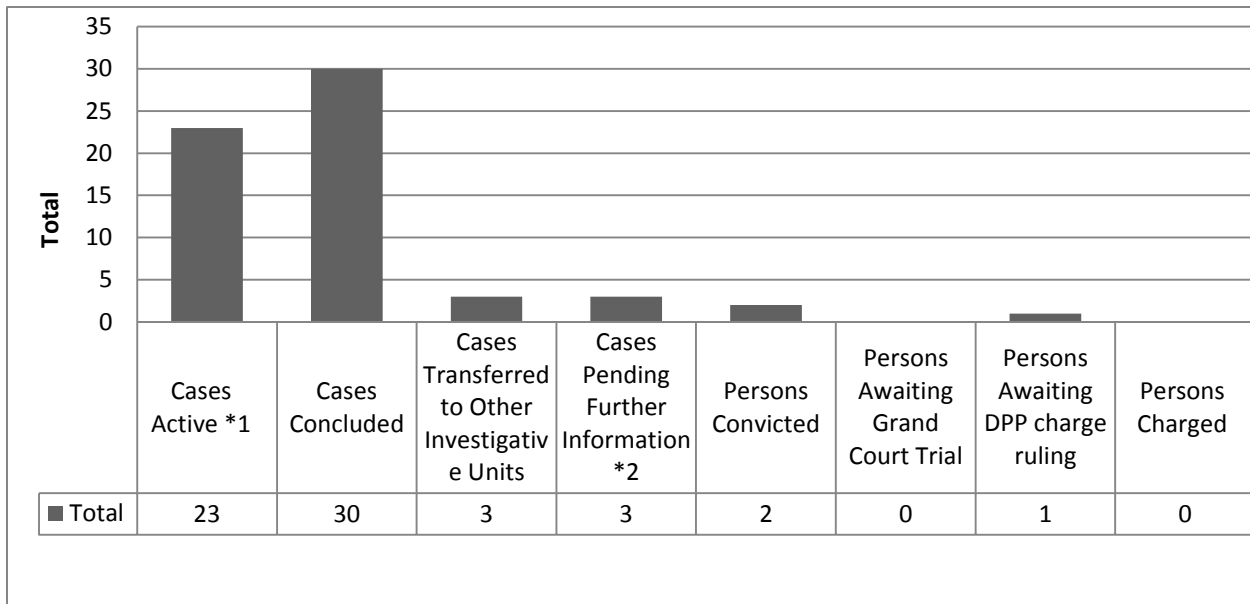

On 15 May 2014 a jury found Police Constable (PC) Elvis Kelsey Ebanks guilty of two counts of soliciting a bribe and two counts of breach of trust. PC Ebanks was charged in Indictment 105/12 of these offences contrary to sections 10 and 13 respectively of the Anti-Corruption Law.

The charges relate to PC Ebanks willfully misconducting himself by soliciting a bribe and breaching public trust during the course of his duties. The duties performed at the time the unlawful actions were committed included the investigation and retrieval of a stolen cell phone from the victim of PC Ebanks' actions at the Autospa in Red Bay on 10 and 14 November 2012. The investigation in this case was performed by members of the Anti-Corruption Unit (ACU) of the Anti-Corruption Commission (ACC) with assistance from Officers of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service (RCIPS).

Public officials are placed in a position of trust and as such must perform their duties honestly and professionally whilst displaying the highest level of integrity. When public officials fail to act in accordance with these standards they will be held accountable. The ACC continues to work diligently to fulfil its legislative mandate to receive and investigate any report of the commission of a corruption offence as detailed in Part III of the Anti-Corruption Law (2008).

A social inquiry report has been requested by Justice Quin and sentencing has been adjourned until 17 July 2014 at 2:00pm to allow for this to be prepared. PC Ebanks' bail was extended with conditions following the delivery of the judgment. The conviction of PC Ebanks is a landmark one for the ACC in that it is the first case in which a public official was convicted under the Anti-Corruption Law.

Section Five
2013-2014 Corruption Statistics

*1 Includes 3 cases from 2011 / 2012 reporting period and 6 cases from reporting period 2012/2013

*2 Includes 2 cases from 2011/ 2012 reporting period and 1 case from reporting period 2012/2013

Whilst the number of complaints received has gone down from 31 to 24, the ACU were given the task of investigating alleged election infractions during the last reporting period, which accounted of the higher number of complaints received during that period. The general election also accounted for the high number of calls to the confidential reporting line during the last reporting period as this line was the published point of contact for such complaints.

It is apparent that with only one call recorded to the confidential reporting line this year, and that one call being dialled in error, the line is not trusted by the populace. The preferred means of reporting is by far that of a trusted conduit such as a Member of the Legislative Assembly (MLA), a known member of the Royal Cayman Islands Police Service, or other highly regarded individuals in the community.

Much of the work of the investigations during this last reporting period has been on long term protracted investigations which have been complex and time consuming, as evidenced by the higher number of interviews conducted.

The number of cases which have been concluded has increased, although in some cases this was merely a change of status from 'pending' to 'concluded' on the basis that sufficient time had elapsed to indicate that no further information was likely to be gathered.

Whilst no persons have been charged in the last year, a number of requests for rulings have been submitted to the Office of the Director of Public Prosecutions (ODPP) however decisions have been made to not prosecute for a variety of reasons such as a lack of evidence which the ODPP felt would not result in a conviction or complex legal interpretive issues with the Anti-Corruption Law. These complex legal interpretive issues continue to be of concern to the ACC.

Section Six

Public Relations and Education

6.1 ACC Website

The Commission continues to maintain its website - www.anticorruptioncommission.ky – in order to increase public awareness as to the work of the ACC. Members of the public can access information on the functions and powers of the Commission, meeting minutes, reports, information on external resources, information on completed cases, general statistics, and resources aimed at engaging for youth with regard to anti-corruption awareness.

6.2 Corruption Lecture – University College of the Cayman Islands

The University College of the Cayman Islands (UCCI) extended the opportunity for members of the ACC to attend a lecture by the distinguished Baroness Scotland entitled Anti-Corruption Commissions that work: An examination of successful regimes on 30 July, 2013. The lecture was the second building block in lectures leading up to the UCCI's 2014 Conference entitled Towards a Corruption Free Caribbean: Ethics, Values and Morality.

6.3 Anti-Corruption Unit Training Opportunities

6.3.1 – 2013 International Anti-Corruption Academy

An investigator of the ACU attended the 2013 International Anti-Corruption Academy in Vienna during July 2013. The 2013 Academy was the third annual ten day intensive training programme and hosted a total of seventy-four attendees. Attendance at the training was achieved through a combination of funding from the Siemens Integrity Institute, the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Commissions Secretariat. On his return an overview of the components of the training undertaken while at the Academy as well as learning outcomes for the Commission as a whole.

6.3.2 – Australian Public Sector Anti-Corruption Conference

The Chairman of the ACC and senior investigator of the ACU attended the Australian Public Sector Anti-Corruption Conference in November 2013. This was the fourth such conference which consisted of workshops and presentations over a three day period in Australia. This biennial event is conducted to increase the knowledge and skill levels of public sector leaders and managers to effectively counter corrupt conduct within their organisations. It is jointly planned and hosted by the NSW Independent Commission against Corruption (ICAC), the Queensland Crime and Misconduct Commission and the Western Australian Corruption and Crime Commission (CCC). Attendance for both attendees at the conference was achieved through a combination of funding from the Foreign and Commonwealth Office and the Commissions Secretariat.

6.3.3 – Offshore Alert Conference

The Offshore Alert Conference 2014 was held on 5 and 6 April 2014 in Miami. The conference aims to allow attendees “to exchange financial intelligence on offshore finance including the very latest on tax initiatives, political issues, beneficial ownership registries, financial transparency, and compliance requirements.” An investigator of the ACU attended in order to glean an understanding of corruption from a financial perspective by attending this conference.

6.4 Statutory Authority Board Briefings

The Chairman facilitated a presentation to members of the Cayman Islands Airports Authority, the Health Services Authority, the National Roads Authority and the Port Authority. The presentation included a briefing on the powers, functions and duties of the ACC; as well as discussions surrounding issues such as what is corruption, register of interests, conflict of interests, personal standards, transparency, elements of good governance and financial reporting.

6.5 2014 UCCI Conference: Towards a Corruption Free Caribbean: Ethics, Values and Morality

ACC Member Leonard Ebanks attended and presented on behalf of the Anti-Corruption Commission at the 2014 UCCI Conference at a Plenary Session entitled Institutions Supporting Democracy in the Quest for a Corruption-Free Cayman Islands. The Session was Chaired by Former Deputy Governor Donovan Ebanks and other panel members included Jan Liebaers representing the Office of the Information Commissioner, Wil Pineau representing the Constitutional Commission, Alastair Swarbrick representing the Office of the Auditor General, Alistair Walters representing the Human Rights Commission, and Nicola Williams representing the Office of the Complaints Commissioner.

Section Eight Moving Forward

Corruption is a legitimate barrier to effective service delivery and an impediment to economic growth and development. Unfortunately many people are afraid of the repercussions of reporting corruption such as being identified or “branded” which is not farfetched in a small community such as the Cayman Islands. It is therefore crucial that the public is constantly educated and made aware of their ability to report potential corruption to the ACU.

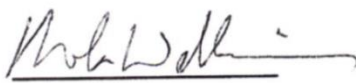

During this reporting period the Commission demonstrated a commitment to ensuring that our investigators and Commission members are well equipped with the most current and diverse academic and technical perspectives on the fight against corruption. It also continued to demonstrate its dedication to education and will continue to accept any opportunity to disseminate information about the role and functions of the ACC and the Anti-Corruption Law (2008).

Finally the ACC would like to reiterate as stated in our previous report that it encourages public authorities to demonstrate their stance against corruption by taking a committed interest in the implementation of strategies including greater internal controls, staff training, and the building-up of an organisational culture marked by professionalism, integrity, and ethically-sound decision-making.

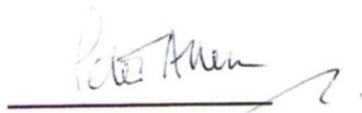

Dated this 8th day of September, 2014.
